THE PAYMASTER FOUND

HE WAS AT HIS MOTHER'S HOUSE IN NEW YORK CITY.

Conflicting Stories as to the Cause of His Mysterious Temporary Disappearance... Cut Wis Hand and Almost

A press dispatch from New York states that Paymaster Henry R. Smith of the Essex, who has been missing for several days, has been found at his mother's residence in New York, suffering from the effects of a big apree. His accounts aboard ship were found to be pesfectly straight. It is said that trouble with his wife caused his temporary departure from his strict habits of schriety.

Before it became known at the Navy Department that the mystery attending the disappearance of Assistant Paymaster Henry R. Smith of the Essex had been cleared up by his discovery at a house on West Fourteenth street, he New York city, an order was issued at the Navy Department detaching him from this vessel and ordering lith to settle accounts. This action is in the regular line of Department procedure, and was not taken because any suspicion attached to Mr. Smith concerning his books. As soon as the facts consistent with the contract of the contract of the concerning his books. As soon as the facts consistent with the contract of the contract suspicion attached to Mr. Smith concerning his books. As soon as the facts connected with the disappearance become officially known some action will be taken, and Paymoster Smith will have to give an account of himself. He has always borne a good record for sobricty and gentlemanly conduct, so mayal officers say, and there is much surprise manifested at his peculiar actions. It is stated at the Navy Department that naval regulations will require the setions. It is stated at the Navy Department that naval regulations will require the count martial of Mr. Smith. The charges will probably be "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman." It is thought that his accounts are all right. Beyond the $200 which he took away with him the Paymaster is not known to have any other Government money in his possession other than two checks amounting to about $200.

The New York World, though, this morning has an entirely different account of Paymaster Smith's disappearance. It says:

of Paymaster Smith's disappearance. It sava:

Passed Assistant Paymaster Henry W. Smith, U. S. N., whose recent mysterious disappearance caused no little anxiety, has been found. When he left his ship, the covette Essex, a week ago Thursday, after a three years' cruise in Chinese waters, he was a picture of health and strength. After landing at the battery in a small boat he boarded an up-town train and hurried to his mother's house at No. 344 West Four-teenth street. He had not seen her for over three years. He soon left her to attend to business in connection with the ship, promising to return the next day. He spent the night at the Gilsey House and this was the last seen of him by his acquainfances. Mrs. Smith became slarmed when her son fatted to return and asked for the aid of the police in finding him. He had drawn $1,200 die him from the Government at the Sub-Trensury the day of his arrival, and it was feared that some accident might have befallen him. Advertisements were placed in the newspapers with the result desired. A carrisge drove up yesterday morning at the door of Mrs. Smith's residence and in a few seconds two men were standing on the sidewalk. They were Dr. W. R. Chi-at the door of Mrs. Smith's residence and in a few seconds two men were standing on the sidewalk. They were Dr. W. R. Chichester of No. 36 West Twenty-sixth street, and Paymaster Smith. The latter had bis left arm bandaged and looked as though he had just risen from the grave. His face was frightfully pale and his step feeble. Dr. Chichester almost carried his companion up the steps and into the house, where he sank into a chair speechless and fell asleep.

H asleep. Dr. Chichester then explained that after Dr. Chichester then explained that after Paymaster Smith left the Gilsey House Friday morning he stopped at a Sfxth avenue restaurant for luncheon. In leaving the restaurant he had to pass through a passage-way having a glass door. A party of gentlemen were coming the other way and pushing against the door in an opposite direction. Something attracted the Paymaster's attention just then, and being a very powerful man, he pushed with his left hand against the door. There was a crash, and Mr. Smith had thrust his hand through the glass door. While turning his head again to see what had happened he quickly pulled his hand back, and in doing so cut it, severing several arteries. His left thumb was almost sliced off the hand, while a pool of his hand back, and in doing so cut it, severing several arteries. His left thumb was almost sliced off the hand, while a pool of blood was rushing from a terrible gash on the sym. Mr. Smith pulled out a white silk handkerchief, which some bystanders took and tied around his arm. He then rushed up West Twenty-sixth street and into Dr. Chiehester's office. Mr. Smith lost over two quarts of blood. The physician treated the injuries and put the paymaster under morphine. Mr. Smith told Dr. Chiehester that he did not care to go to his home for fear of causing his aged mother path, and saked the doctor to keep him at his house, which was agreed to. He refused to give his name, fearing that his mother might learn of the accident. Had he been fifteen minutes longer without medical attendance he would have bled to death. He was kept under the tuiluence of

NEW STATES' CONSTITUTIONS.

The Younger of the Sisterhood of States Getting Ready for Business.

The Yeanger of the Sisterhood of States tectting Ready for Business.

New Yonk, May 4.—A special from Seattle, Washington Territory, to the World says: The convention to construct a constitution for the State of Washington will meet in July at Olympia, the Territorial capital. All but two counties of the Territory are Republican, and the districting will give the Republicans just two-thirds of the members, Democrats being entitled to the remainder under the enabling act. The Republican primaries are now being held. Little interest is taken in the approaching convention. The Woman Suffragists and Prohibitionists are strong, but will be unable to get their hobbies into the constitution. The chief topic of discussion is the State lands, and on Paget Sound, where the lide flats in the harbors have enormous value, the land grabbers are working to secure the claims they have staked, and the opposition to them is on the ground that the State should own the flats.

Eastern Washington takes little interest in this matter and her deciding vote may go either way. Probably a conservative constitution, patterned after that of older States, will be submitted. So anxious are all for Statehood that the deaire is to frame a constitution that will meet no opposition. Consequently no radical, ideas will be embodied in it. However dull matters are now, lively times are promised at the State election. Several heavy millionaires are entered for the Senatorial race and the Northern Pacific Railroad will take a hand. The immigration of politicians from the East has been very heavy, and there will be a big fight for every office. Already the Republican party is badly split over Territorial appointment made for the brief term until November, and Delegate Allen, whose advice President Harrison followed, is bitterly assailed by scores of Republican papers. No principle is involved, but the rapid advance in real estate values has made men rich and now they yearn for fame.

This obstacle was removed, however, to-day and the corridors swarmed with Buckeyes who wanted a word with the Chief Magistrate. Hop. Charles Foster, after a turn with the President, gave Private Secretary Halford a treat with a lengthy conversation, but he was not able to get out of the White House unseen. As the ex-Governor came out of the room of the private secretary he almost fell into the outstretched arms of Congressman Ben. Admiral Porter Explains General But ler's Speech.

In his Boston speech. Wednesday, General Butler, in eulogiaing Farragut at New Orleans, spoke of "his brave officers—all save one, a high officer, who ran away." The attention of Admiral Forter was called to General Butler's speech yesterday. The Admiral said: "There were three officers who falled to take their ships past the fort who were censured by Farragut in general orders. One of the three, a commander, undoubtedly did behave budly, and ran away. The others were not properly censurable, and were exonerated by Farragut when he understood the circumstances. I will not give you the name of the officer who ran away. Thave no doubt General Butler means the same man I do. I never could account for that naval commander's conduct. Once, in another engagement, I knew him to do a very daring act in cutting a ship out from under the gagement, I knew him to do a very daring act in cutting a ship out from under the enemy's guns, but on two other occasions he discredited himself. He lost caste with his brother officers after his misbehavior at New Orleans, but in later years partly re-gained his standing. I agree with General Butler that the credit for the capture of New Orleans is due to Farragut."

THE COPPER MUDDLE.

The American and English and French Farties Unable to Agree.

Boston, Mass., May 4.—This morning's Hendelhas a three column cable dispatch from Paris on the failure of the copper conference, confirming dispatches to that effect that have appeared within a day or two. The amount of copper held for money advanced to the syndicate amounts to 175.—600 tons, 150,000 tons of which is in Paris and the balance in London. The Paris holders are the Bank of France, which has 69,000 tons, and the Rothschilds, 40,000 tons. Baring Brothers are the largest English holders. The Rio Tinto Company insisted that the American mines should send only 20 per sent, of their copper to Europe, a proposition that Colone Livermore, representing the Calumet and Heela companies, would not agree to. The correspondent says: The conference has failed to strive at any agreement, written or verbal, and it has broken up without fixing the price. The American committee has left Paris in disgust, and its members will sail from Liverpool to New York to-day on the Servia. Copper will hereafter be put on the open market and sold for what it will bring. At the meetings of the conference, which were held daily, three or four times a day, sixteen gentlemen being present. First, the American committee, consisting of Colonel Livermore, Messra. Haggin, Lewichen, Abbott and Wheeler, and then the Europeaus, comprising the Societo dea Metaux, M. Edmond Morean and M. Finally after days of profitless discussion and some plain talk Colonel Livermore drew up a proposition, which the Bank of France directors recommended for acceptance. The proposition was, in brief, that the selling price of copper be fixed at four pounds per ton; that a committee be appointed to determine what proportion of the 175,000 tons now in hand shall be regularly placed on the market, and what proportion of the future product from American and English owner mines, the mines agreeing to curtail their output accordingly, this agreement to hold for six months, at the end of which time it could be renewed if it proved satisfactory, the parties concerned to meet again and make what arrangements necessary. This was accepted and ordered to be engrossed for signatures. The Frenchmen desired, when engrossed, the document be sent to the Barings in London to secure the English signatures. This was agreed to, and the meeting dissolved, everybody supposing, at any rate the Amsricans, the matter settled. The American committee returned to London to await the arrival of the engrossed agreement. They waited, but the document did not arrive. Mr. Doctsch of the Rio Tinto had refused to sign and the Frenchmen refused their signatures if Mr. Doctsch held off.

Indians After Each Other,

A dispatch to the Pioneer Press from Fort Custer, Montana, says: "This morning a Crow courier rode into the post and reported that a party of strange Indians had swept across the Leghorn Valley in the night, rading the Crow Reservation at a point about sixteen miles south of Custer and near the old station of the Wyoming Stage Company. The raiders drove off a lot of stock belonging to the Crows and escaped into the hitis. The post commander ordered out a detachment composed of twenty men, First United States Cavalry, three cellisted Crow scouts and interpreters, under the command of Lieutenant Barber. It is expected that the trail will be found to lead north, as the courier reports that various articles thrown away by the raiders show them to be Assimboine Sloux. The Crows believe thom to be friends of a small party that raided the reservation last summer, but were overtaken by the Crows and shot to pieces.

A Giant Sun Fish.

One day hast week the lighthouse-keeper at Cape Lookout observed on the sand a monster fish which had been stranded during the night. By the aid of the life-saving crew the fish was secured, but no one could tell of what species it was. Information of its capture was sent to the Smithsonian Institution, and a description was asked for. Before this was received a gentleman reached here who had seen the fish, and expressed the opinion that it was of the molarctunda family, the common sun fish. When the fish arrived this was found to be When the fish arrived this was found to be the case. It weighed 600 pounds, and is supposed to be the largest specimen ever caught. It will be skeletonized and placed in the National Museum.

The Work and Play of the Busy World...Crime's Share in the Country's News...The Day's Doings East

Bosros, May 4.—Concerning the reports that have been circulated about Treasurer Pessenden of the Cape Cod Ship Canal Company, whose statement from San Fran-cisco is published to-day, Mr. F. Lockwood company, whose statement from San Francisco is published to-day, Mr. F. Lockwood of the Canal Company says he knows of nothing to Fessenden's relations with the company that would warrant anything like the statement that has been printed. Mr. Fessenden went to California two weeks ago. Everybody who had an interest in the matter knew when he went away. "I don't know anything of his indebtedness," said Mr. Lockwood, "except that he is all straight with the Cape Cod Ship Canal. His accounts as tressurer are all right." Mr. Lockwood thought the talk about Fessenden was malicious and inspired by enemies. Mr. Thomas J. Marsh, who has had business relations with Mr. Fessenden of many years standing, said that he knew that Mr. Fessenden was going to California. He went out with his wife and daughter some time ago, and, leaving them there, returned to Sandwich. Two weeks ago he went out again. Mr. Marsh considered Mr. Fessenden a man of integrity. den a man of Integrity.

A New Yorker Who Got Drunk and Fell Off a House. Fell Off a House.

New York, May 4.—A man, whose name has since been learned to be James. Mahoney, was found deed late last night lying in the middle of the sidewelk on West Fifty-fifth street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues. There was an ugly wound on the right side of the forehead and the hair was matted with blood. The right arm and aukle were broken. The pollee were at first inclined to believe that the man had been murdered. A rigid investigation has since satisfied them that the man's death was due to a fall from the roof of the two-story brick building. His hat was found on the roof this morning. For what purpose he went on the roof no one knows. It lived at 871 Seventh avenue. It was learned that Mahoney was drunk early last evening and that he was in the habit of sleeping in a stable that adjoined the building from which it is supposed he fell.

Prospects of Enormous Emigration From Europe to This Country. Losnos, May 4.—Advices from Rome state that Signor Crispl, in a conference yesterday withKing Humbert, threatened to resign on account of the opposition made from several sources to one of his pet projects. He believes, with some probability, that the King has been advised from Berlin to pat an end to the semseless idea of extending Italian occupation in Abyssinta and asked the monarch if German influence was to be henceforward paramount in Rome. Signor Crispl has intimated that General Baldissera is beiking in dosh, and the General has requested to be relieved, frankly stating that too many lives have aiready been wasted in the vain attempt to gain a foothold in that country, the only portions of which are tenable for white men are at such a distance from the counts as to make safe and regular dommunications impracticable. Their Injudicious Mixture the Cause of a College Being All Amuck.

Lapatert, Ind., May 4.—The students of Purdue University, with the exception of the judices, are up in arms against the faculty. On Wednesday evening the judices gave a public entertainment, under the sanction of the faculty. There was the usual opposition from the lower class men. Torpedoes and the resonant bursting of paper bags interspersed the entertainment. A hinge torpedo was exploded at Professor O. J. Craigs' feet while he was pronouncing an invocation. It cull short the prayer and spolled the effects, so far as the assistance was concerned, of that part of the benediction already uttered. Professor Craigs' nerves were badly shattered, and, in view of this fact, a meeting of the faculty was called, at which the sophomores and freshmen were suspended.
